

AN ODD FELLOW VISITATION

Mt. Pleasant Lodge of Dover Guest of Osgood Lodge and Work a Degree.

The Mt. Pleasant Lodge, No. 10, I. O. O. F., of Dover, to the number of over a hundred were the guests on Thursday evening of Osgood Lodge, No. 48, I. O. O. F., of this city. They came down on a special train accompanied by their famous degree staff, and they were met at the depot by the members of Osgood Lodge with their drum corps and after a short march escorted to the lodge room.

The degree staff of the visiting brothers worked the first degree on five candidates of Osgood Lodge and their work brought forth great praise from the large number of members present. Their floor work and marching was especially effective and taken with the music furnished by their own orchestra of eight pieces, it was a very fine exhibition of degree work. The noble grand of the degree team is Edward L. Currier, and the degree master Past Grand Charles Gray, who is entitled to great credit. The work

NEW YORK TRAIN HERE NEXT YEAR

It is repeated on reliable authority that Portsmouth will later get the fast train between York now running via Dover over the Portland division of the Boston and Maine.

When the idea was first planned it was the intention of the railroad management to make this train a seashore as far as possible and it was to run via Portsmouth and Dover, the Southern division to Rockingham thence to former Western division to Lowell. This route was given up for the present one owing alone to the bridge over Great Bay between Stratham and Rockingham. It is understood that such repairs and alterations will be made on this bridge that the heavy locomotives can pass over this body of water and the train will next season take this route as originally planned.

THE WEATHER

Friday night and Saturday—continued warm, light to moderate variable winds, generally fair, scattering local showers.

GRAND ARMY AND THE JULY 4 PARADE

Exercises in Honor of Soldier Dead and the Schools in Parade

At an adjourned meeting of Storers Post, G. A. R., held Thursday evening, it was decided to march with full ranks from the hall on Daniel Street to the Soldiers' Monument, for the purpose of receiving the Returned Sons and Daughters who will place a floral offering on the soldiers' Monument immediately on their arrival on the morning of July Fourth.

The entire Naval Brigade and the regulars from Fort Constitution will be in attendance, also.

Storers Post will be stationed on each side of the pedestal, while the delegations of the returning sons move forward on the two walks leading to the monument to make their offering.

To avoid all damage to the grounds, and for other obvious reasons, none of the delegations of the returning sons will be permitted in the grounds of the park. Vehicles of all descriptions will be restricted from occupying the street in front of the park, or obstructing the line of march. This rule will, of necessity, apply to the entire line from and including Market Square to Goodwin Park, also to Pleasant Street from State to Market Square. The Veterans, assisted by the Relief Corps, will decorate the monument, and also the Fitz John Porter Statue.

Storers Post will also join the parade at the corner of Pleasant and State Streets and march in review before Governor Quimby, who will be assisted by the Mayor and City Council, our Senators and Representatives in Congress, and by the Representatives of our Patriotic Societies, and others.

In the afternoon of July Fourth, Storers Post will keep open house to all comrades, who will be heartily welcomed.

The schools to be represented in the Parade are expected to assemble at their respective play-grounds at 9.30 a. m. July Fourth, so that they may be in line at 10 a. m. sharp, if necessary.

The Commanders of School Battalions are requested to forward at once a roster of their Field and Line Officers to the Chief Marshal, J. A. Sanborn.

Mrs. Samuel Nelson has what she believes is a record breaker, of a rose. She planted the seed out doors this spring, and it has already grown five inches tall and borne one pretty white blossom, and there is a bud developing for another blossom.

A new floor is to be laid in the primary room at the No. 6 school house.

Mrs. D. Cromett Clark is visited by her aunt, Mrs. Charles A. Hill, of Worcester, Mass., and by her sister-in-law and son, Mrs. Willard C. Aldrich and Master Willard W. Aldrich of Port Deposit, Md.

Henry C. Knight, principal of South Berwick grammar school, and Miss Bessie M. Staples, a former employee of M. C. Foye and company of Portsmouth, were married on Wednesday by Elder George W. Brown, an uncle of the groom. They left town for a short wedding trip. Beginning in September they will reside at South Berwick. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thaddeus Knight of South Eliot, the bride a daughter of Mrs. Florence Staples of South Eliot. Both are fine young people with many friends who wish them all happiness and prosperity.

The annual meeting of Eliot Women's Christian Temperance Union comes this afternoon at the home of Mrs. James Bartlett.

Robert Moore Field of New York is at the Mitchell camp on the river bank.

Harry Paul's tent and the tent of Robert F. Staples and Eugene Paul, on the river bank were the big attractions last night for the boys of South Eliot.

The central committee for the town centennial met at the Fogg library Thursday evening and transacted considerable business. An important item was the placing of a contract for evening fireworks. The finance and ways and means committee reported progress on the soliciting of funds to add to the town appropriation. It was arranged that the Massachusetts Decorating and Novelty company shall have the contract for decorating the public library, town hall, high school, four other school houses along the line of the parade, and one church, the decorations to be maintained in good shape for a week. The announcement was made that the ode for the occasion has been written by Rev. Augustine Caldwell. A large amount of routine matters were taken care of.

TO ENCOURAGE GOOD SHOOTING BY STATE TROOPS

Manchester, N. H., June 2.—In the hopes of proving an added incentive of efficient work in small arms practice in the New Hampshire National Guard six trophies have been offered to companies and individuals showing the highest proficiency. Announcement of these trophies was made in connection with orders just issued from the office of Adjutant General Chief of Staff Harry B. Cilley regarding the appointment of a team to represent this state in the annual rifle competition of the New England Military Rifle Association at Wakefield, Mass., July 11-16.

These trophies are as follows:

(a) A tricolor for company or troops making the highest figure of merit with the rifle for the record season of 1910.

(b) A state trophy for the company or troop making the greatest gain in figure of merit with rifle for the record season of 1910.

(c) A state trophy for troop or battery making the highest figure of merit with revolver; figure of merit to be computed as in the three highest classes with rifle.

(d) A trophy by the commanding officer, 1st infantry, to the company in the 1st infantry making the highest per cent. of qualifications in the three highest classes (a marksman counts same as sharpshooter or expert).

(e) A trophy by the field and staff, 1st infantry, to company in 1st infantry making the highest figure of merit in first, second and third classes.

(f) A trophy by officers of the ordnance department for the company or troop attaining the highest per cent. of qualifications as third-class marksman or better. By order of the Governor, HARRY B. CILLEY, Adjutant-General, Chief of Staff.

THIRTY-FOUR THOUSAND BILLS

Washington, June 24.—Of the thirty-four thousand bills that Congress has been asked to enact into law at the present session one hundred and twenty-two affect railroads exclusively. Omitting the so-called "Administration bill" this long list of proposed measures covers a wide range, restricting the power to make and collect rates, dictating methods of operation, and in many instances simply requiring railroads to do the precise things they now do of their own free will. An example of this work of Congress is found in the bills of Senators Burkett, of Nebraska, and Cummins of Iowa, and Representative Condy of Missouri, requiring the railroads to carry 150 pounds of baggage free for an adult passenger. The railroads have done this for years.

A still more notable example of compelling by law the doing of something that is already fully provided for is the bill of Representative Mann of Illinois, giving the Interstate Commerce Commission power to formulate regulations for the transportation of explosives. One of the most noteworthy achievements of the railroads recently has been the brilliant success of the Bureau of Explosives, organized by the railroads four years ago, in reducing the danger of handling the five thousand cars containing explosives that are in transit every day somewhere in the United States.

Boiler inspection seems to be the pet subject among the law-makers this year, no fewer than seven bills on that topic having been introduced in the two houses. As all railroads employ large and expensive engineering staffs which keep locomotive boilers under continuous and thorough inspection as part of the routine essential to the operation of the roads, about the only substantial gain to be effected by the enactment of one of these bills will be the creation of several hundred new government offices. The President will have the appointment of a boiler inspector-general and two assistants. The Interstate Commerce Commission can appoint the three hundred local inspectors without the intervention of the civil service. Incidentally, the inspectors by exercising their right to withdraw locomotives from service at any time for tests and inspection would have it in their power seriously to cripple the operation of the railroads.

Enjoying equal popularity with the inspection idea is the attempt to restore the late lamented pass to its former vogue. Seven bills have been introduced to give certain privileged classes the right to ride free. These range all the way from Confederate veterans to publishers.

Senator Pearce has introduced a bill giving certain colleges $50,000 to use in determining the hammer blow, centrifugal lift and tangential throw of counter balances. As various colleges, railroad companies and mechanical engineers have already gone in to this subject pretty fully without waiting for government aid, the value of this scheme, except to the colleges that get the money, is not apparent.

Still another proposed measure is one providing for "fall crews." Four bills have been introduced on this subject, and four more limiting the hours that a railroad man is permitted to labor. One of these bills, introduced by Representative Murphy of Missouri, imposes a penalty of $200 for permitting any employee to work more than eight hours without taking a rest of sixteen hours.

Other proposed laws require sleeping cars to be equipped with safes, provide for the incorporation of railroads, the preparation of uniform freight classification of the products of convict labor, and establish a commission to investigate labor disputes.

One of the several bills on the subject of block signals, empowers the Interstate Commerce Commission to order any railroad to install them or one fourth of its lines by July 1, 1912.

Another introduced by Representative Martin, of South Dakota, specifies dimensions of locomotives, cars and distance of structure from track.

Another class of bills deals with freight claims, one by Representative Rodenberg, of Illinois, incorporates the Freight Claims Clearing house, which will create several offices with salaries of $5,000 a year. The incumbent of less desirable but more numerous places are to adjust freight claims by shippers promptly. Another bill by Representative Madison of Kansas, is meant to compel railroad to pay "just" claims within ninety days. If they fail to do so the claimant may add his attorney's fee to his claim. The bill provides no test by which a "just" claim can be identified.

A bill by Representative Smith of Illinois, provides for Federal compensation for deaths and injuries on railroads, all claims to be paid within thirty days. Funds are to be raised by levying a tax of ten dollars on each car and locomotive. In 1908, there were 2,302,055 cars and locomotives on the railroads of the United States so that this tax would amount to the sum $23,020,550.

Various bills in House and Senate provide that rates may not be raised before October 1st, 1910 and automatic yearly postage may increase in rates against which protest is lodged. A bill by Representative Stevenson of Minnesota, provides for the appointment of a receiver to operate a railroad during strikes. One by Representative Hardy, of Texas, compels railroads to transfer freight to wharves on rivers and lakes, while another by Representative Graham, of Pennsylvania, would compel railroads to furnish stakes and cross wires for fences of lumber. Several others make it unlawful to charge more for a short haul than for a long haul. Still others restrict the issue of securities, prohibit disclosures regarding shipment etc.

The transportation of misbranded insecticides, provision for monthly accident reports under oath, and prohibition of the hauling of cars not equipped with safety appliances after July 1, 1911, have passed both houses, been signed by the President, and are now laws.

CLOWNS A STRONG FEATURE

Funniest Comedians on Earth With Forepaugh Sells Brothers

Clever clowns are one of the reasons of the success of the Great Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers Big United Shows. There are fifty of them picked from the theaters and royal courts of Europe and Asia. Each has his own characteristic methods of creating laughter.

Individual hits are made by comedians from the theaters of Germany and France, buffoons from famous British lairs, jesters from the courts of Asiatic kings, burlesque artists from our own comic opera stage.

The performance is rich in amusement. There is a laugh every second. Men, women and children in the audience laugh whether they wish to or not. They can't help it. Ancient tricks and time-worn devices, still in vogue with inferior shows, have been discarded by these up-to-date clowns. The result is refreshing.

In addition to the fifty clowns there are a number of burlesque trapeze and horizontal bar acts that are enough to make a horse laugh. Interest in the coming of the Adam Forepaugh and Sells Brothers circus to Portsmouth, Friday, July 1, has reached a high pitch.

SPORTING DOPE

There is to be a boxing match on the battleship New Hampshire Saturday afternoon, when Hayward, the colored fighter will go against one of the good men of the battleship Wisconsin. Hayward has the reputation of being a clever man.

Physical Director Howard of the Y. M. C. A. is rapidly getting a team into shape for the sports on July fourth. There are a number of entries already received to be under the Y. M. C. A., and they are getting the necessary training. As a matter of fact, there is not the material in this city for these events that there was ten years ago. Athletic sports seem to have been dropped out of sight for want of encouragement. This is noticeable in the case of the high school. At the present time, for that matter, for the past few years, there is absolutely no interest in athletics in this school, and even the baseball and football teams get at the best weak-kneed support. It is from high school scholars that the good athletes are drawn and it is a pity that a little more encouragement could not be given the sports.

The entries for the July fourth sports from the battleship New Hampshire are putting in some good work under their athletic instructor and they are confident that they will carry away some of the medals. By the way, medals will be awarded for these sports, a gold medal for first, silver for second and bronze for third.

There is a great interest being taken at the Country Club in the tennis tournament for club members now started.

COAST ARTILLERY NOTICES

The regular weekly drill of the 1st Company Coast Artillery Corps was held at the armory on Thursday evening, with a large attendance. The work of the evening was on the drill for the 12-inch gun, duties of the gun crew and service of the pieces.

Instruction was also given on the care of small arms and rifle practice in general.

Coast Artillery Riflemen Make Good Scores at Manchester.

Two of the members of the First Company, C. A. C., went to the Massachusetts Rifle Range for practice on the long distance range, Tuesday. The weather conditions in the morning were very favorable and some good scores were made. In the afternoon a high wind came up and with the mirage made good scores some hard. Delay are a few of the scores: A peculiar scene was that of Lieut. Bodwell on the 1000 yard range, when he scored 19 out of 25 with one complete miss. This was due, it is thought, to defective ammunition, as he scored a bulls-eye before and two more after.

MADE GOOD FLIGHT

Newburyport, June 24.—At a height of forty feet and in a heavy wind, William Hildard, the Boston aviator, flew a full mile and a half across Plum Island River Friday, the start being made shortly before 5 o'clock with only a handful of spectators present.

The flight was looked upon as an even greater achievement than the five-mile trip made by the Boston man last night, owing to the unfavorable weather conditions existing today. Hildard declares that before another twenty-four hours passed he will break all New England records for aeroplaning flights.

NEWFIELDS

A most enjoyable and profitable lawn party was held last evening by the Church of the Sacred Heart on the lawn of David Leverage Wednesday evening. Patrons from Newmarket, Exeter and other surrounding towns together with the large numbers of local attendants, made the crowd a large one, and a brisk business was done by each of the side attractions such as the wheel of fortune, and ice cream booths. Dancing was the principal attraction, music being furnished by a burdygurdy from Portsmouth. Lucky ticket holders in prizes were Russell Sheehy, who was awarded the cuff buttons; Emma Tardiff, the box of cigars, and the guess cake to Eugene Leverage.

The hot weather following the damp weather has started the hay crop to growing, so that it will be cut somewhat earlier than usual this year.

LABOR UNIONS NOT EXEMPT

Subject to Operation of Sherman Anti-Trust Law

TAFT KILLS AMENDMENT

Works Whole Day to Defeat Measure Asked For by Labor Men, Declaring That He Would Not Approve It If It Cost His Support of Every Laboring Man in Country—Grounds For His Action

Washington, June 24.—Labor organizations were declared by the house to be not immune from the anti-trust and interstate commerce laws. The house by a vote of 138 to 120, on a motion to concur with the senate's action, defeated the Hughes amendment to the sundry civil bill, which would have exempted labor organizations from the effect of those laws.

The defeated amendment provides that no part of the appropriation for the enforcement of the anti-trust laws "shall be spent in the prosecution of any organization or individual for entering into any combination or agreement having in view the increasing of wages, shortening of hours or bettering the condition of labor, or for any act done in furtherance thereof in itself unlawful."

President Taft spent the entire day and bent every energy toward the defeat of the house amendment which proposed to exempt labor unions from the operation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

He threw his whole influence into the fight, sending for scores of representatives and urging them to defeat the provision. Mr. Taft declared that if it cost him the support of every laboring man in the country he would not approve such a provision of law. "The laboring man, he believed, asked only equality before the law and was entitled to no more."

It was the president's fight on this amendment to the big supply bill which caused rumors that there undoubtedly would be a delay in adjournment. Mr. Taft felt he had a longer fight before him than proved to be the case, and was doubtful of the result until the vote was finally taken. When informed of the result he made no attempt to conceal his gratification.

Incidentally, the president sent a long telegram last night to the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen meeting at St. Paul, in which he outlined his views on the matter. The telegram was in response to a message of protest from the convention.

STARTLES REPORTERS

Roosevelt Tells Them He May Never Make Another Political Speech

New York, June 24.—Theodore Roosevelt had just popped out of his editorial office late yesterday afternoon when he saw a group of interviewers and stopped. They told him that his first political utterance was awaited with the greatest interest—and when, please, would he make it.

"I have no idea when I shall make a political speech," he replied. "I shall make no speech of any kind for two months, and my first speeches in Kansas City, Cheyenne, Milwaukee and Chicago will have nothing to do with politics. I don't know that I shall ever make another political speech."

"What, never?" someone cried. "I don't say never," he corrected; "I simply don't know."

MARTIN WALSH INDICTED

Reward For His Apprehension May Be Increased to $1000

Boston, June 24.—Martin J. Walsh, alleged leader of the faro gang, was indicted by the United States circuit court grand jury on the charge of aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the misapplication of the funds of the National City bank of Cambridge.

United States District Attorney French has requested the department of justice to authorize an increase in the reward for the apprehension of Walsh from $200 to $1000. The attorney general has not yet acted upon the request.

Kissing Costs School Head His Job—New York, June 24.—On complaint of two pupils in a school in Wood Haven, of which he was principal, Edwin H. Chase has been discharged by the board of education. The girls had complained that Chase had kissed them against their will.

Fatal Mishap in Churchyard—Fall River, Mass., June 24.—Ernest Bloux, 7 years old, died from injuries received while climbing on a counter on the grounds of St. Matthew's church. The counter toppled over, fracturing the boy's skull and breast bone.

TRIAL STARTS WITH RUSH

Charges Against Widow of Glover and Six Other Persons

Cambridge, Mass., June 24.—Mrs. Lillian M. Glover, widow of Clarence F. Glover, and six of her friends were yesterday arrested on indictments charging them with being accessories after the fact to the murder of her husband at Waltham on the night of Nov. 20 last, in that they helped to conceal Hattie Le Blanc in the Glover house.

Indicted and arrested with Mrs. Glover were Samuel D. Elmore and Alton F. Tupper, her attorneys; George A. Freeman and Mrs. Frances I. Freeman, his wife, the most intimate friends of the widow; Seymour Glover, the only one of the five brothers of the murdered man who was remembered in his will, and his wife, Mrs. May Glover.

The trial of the indicted persons started with a rush. A jury was selected in a very short time. The twelve men were taken to Waltham, where they viewed the scene of the crime. They returned to Cambridge, had luncheon and were in the jury box at 3 o'clock.

NEW GRAND JURY ORDERED

Beef Trust Scores a Point by Having Its Demurrers Sustained

Chicago, June 24.—Judge Landis in the United States district court here sustained the demurrers of the so-called beef trust to the indictment charging a combination in restraint of trade. A new grand jury was ordered to review the investigation of the packing companies.

The indictment was drawn on evidence secured by agents of the federal government against the National Packing company and its ten subsidiary companies, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

The indictment quashed failed to show, in the view of Landis, that any offense had been committed within the last three years. The general averment that the packing companies engaged in a combination in restraint of trade the court declared to be a mere conclusion. Landis said:

"The court is not clothed with authority to supply entirely by inference the complete omission of so fundamental an element of the offense."

BALLINGER'S STAY WILL BE VERY SHORT

Said to Have Already Surrendered His Portfolio

Washington, June 24.—The first break in President Taft's cabinet is expected now any day. It comes from the most authentic circles that Secretary of the Interior Ballinger has decided to surrender his cabinet portfolio.

This decision, according to the source of information, is made without regard to the present investigation or any report made by the investigators.

The charges made by Gifford Pinchot have brought a notoriety that has been most distasteful not only to the secretary but to his family. As announced, the resignation already is awaiting an opportune time for the president's acceptance of it.

It was Ballinger's intention to leave the cabinet the first part of the month, but he has been prevailed upon to delay the presentation for a few weeks.

AGED BISHOP WEDS

Miss Jefferson of Portland Becomes the Bride of Dr. Jagger

Portland, Me., June 24.—The marriage in this city of Rt. Rev. Thomas A. Jagger, D. D., bishop in charge of the American Episcopal churches in Europe, to Miss Mary E. Jefferson of this city came as a surprise to the majority of the clergyman's friends.

Bishop Jagger was born in New York in 1839 and from 1873 to 1903 he was bishop of southern Ohio, resigning his see on account of ill health. Later he became rector of St. Paul's church, this city.

The bishop was married in 1862 to Miss Anna L. Lawrence. She died some years ago.

The second wedding occurred at St. Luke's cathedral, this city. Rt. Rev. Robert Codman, D. D., bishop of Maine, officiating.

"Golden Rule" Chief of Police Will Be Restored to Duty

Cleveland, June 24.—Frederick Kohler, the "Golden Rule" chief of police, who was suspended from his position by Mayor Baehr upon the filing of charges alleging drunkenness and immorality, was acquitted by the civil service commission.

The decision followed a lengthy trial. Kohler will be reinstated at once.

REPUBLICANS MAKE REPORT

What Lodge's Cost of Living Committee Has Found

MINORITY HOLDING BACK

No Protest Against Findings of Associates, but Will Make Further Investigation—Advance in Farm Products Far Greater Than in Any Other Group of Commodities—Due to Greater Expense in Production

Washington, June 24.—Senator Lodge's select committee on wages and prices of commodities made its report to the senate after a series of hearings beginning in February. The report comes from the Republican majority only, consisting of Senators Lodge of Massachusetts, chairman; Gallinger, McCumber, Smoot and Crawford.

The Democratic minority, Senators Clarke, Johnston and Smith, have been authorized by the full committee to employ an expert and compile such a report as they may desire to make.

The three Democrats have uttered no protest against the findings of their Republican associates, but it is expected that they will avail themselves of their privilege and prepare a report which will be as useful as campaign ammunition for their party as the majority report will be for the Republicans.

The majority report, which is preliminary to a more exhaustive presentation, deals with sixteen subjects, viz: wholesale and retail prices, wages and hours of labor; increased cost of production of farm products; demand for farm products and the supply; the tariff; combinations and associations; the gold supply; labor unions; cost of distribution; cold storage; sanitary and other regulations; overcapitalization; immigration; the higher standard of living, and freight rates on the commodities of life.

Causes related to all these subjects except the tariff and also to shifting of population, reduced fertility of land, increased banking facilities, enabling farmers to hold their crops, are cited as contributing to the advance in prices.

Says the majority report: The causes of the advance can best be discussed by first indicating the groups of commodities in which the advance have occurred during the period from 1890 to 1909. The general wholesale price level in the United States represented by 257 commodities advanced 14.5 percent as follows: Farm products, 39.8; food, etc., 19.7; lumber and building materials, 19.6; miscellaneous commodities, 14.7; clothes and clothing, 12; fuel and lighting, 6.9; house-furnishing goods, 5.8; metal and implements, 4.6; drugs and chemicals declined 2.9.

The percent of advance in farm products was twice as great as the advance in any other group of commodities. The second greatest advance was in the food group, and the third greatest in lumber and building material.

The testimony of practically all witnesses who have been familiar with farm conditions is to the effect that the cost of production of farm products has risen very rapidly during the past ten years; wages of farm hands have increased on an average about 50 percent, and the original investment necessary to secure land has practically doubled during that period.

The richness of the virgin soil is disappearing and in many localities the crop average can be maintained only by the use of expensive fertilizers, by rotation of crops, or by allowing the ground to lie fallow.

The supply of available government land for general farming has been materially reduced and the ranges are being rapidly cut up into homes for settlers.

The cost of production of live stock has materially increased with the disappearance of the range, which necessitates producing cattle on tame pasture and high-priced lands.

The assumption seems fair that for the products of the forest and of the farm the available supply is not keeping pace with the demand, while for manufactured articles the supply has practically kept pace with the demand. With imported articles, either not grown or produced in only a limited way in the United States, the supply appears to have slightly more than kept pace with the demand.

Women Witness Awful Sight—Pittsburg, June 24.—John Mitchell, a steel worker at the West Penn steel plant, was precipitated into a soaking pit containing a white hot ingot. His body was consumed by the metal into which it slowly sank, before the eyes of his sweetheart and mother who he had been showing about the place.

Commutation Rate Protest—Washington, June 24.—Formal complaints were submitted to the interstate commerce commission of recent advances in commutation rates made by the railroads operating out of New York city. The commission has under consideration the acceptance of these complaints.

NEW ENGLAND COD INDUSTRY MENACED

Pacific Combine Going After Toothsome Fish in Behring Sea

Boston, June 24.—T wharf almost hopped out of the water with excitement when reports came from the Pacific coast that a gigantic combine of two leading fish industries of the Pacific had been formed to drive the New England codfish industry off the map.

The Pacific combine plans to catch cod in the Behring sea. It seems with cod. The catches are to be cured in Alaska and along Puget sound and then merchandised so cheaply that the sacred codfish of Massachusetts will be put out of business. T wharf is quite concerned at the report.

Secretary Rich of the New England Fish company said that the Pacific combine would be a serious menace to the New England cod industry.

YOUNG NEWMAN A SUICIDE

Report of Doctors Who Performed Autopsy on Lyman School Boy

Worcester, Mass., June 24.—District Attorney Taft announced that the report of the physicians who performed an autopsy upon the exhumed body of John Newman, the Lyman school boy, was that he came to his death by hanging, all evidence pointing to the fact that he committed suicide. The report says there is no evidence of criminal homicide.

The autopsy was performed by Medical Examiner McGrath of Boston and Medical Examiner Knight in the presence of Dr. Charles S. Kale, family physician for the Newman family, and Professor Dwight of the Harvard medical school.

MILLS TO CLOSE TEN DAYS

Amoskeag Employees Will Be $140,000 Out of Pocket as a Result

Manchester, N. H., June 24.—The official announcement by Herman S. Stray of the Amoskeag Manufacturing company that from July 1 to July 11 the big mills here will be shut down, is the first intimation that the 15,500 operatives here will lose their weekly payroll of $140,000.

The move on the part of the company has been indirectly indicated, following the statement that the high cost of raw materials was making work on schedule time very difficult.

Brewery Workers' Wages Raised—Portsmouth, N. H., June 24.—An increase of wages, ranging from $1 to $1.80 per week, has been granted to all employees of the Frank Jones Brewing company, the Eldridge Brewing company and the Portsmouth Brewing company, all of this city.

A BILLION DOLLAR SESSION

Congress Has Peddled Out Money With Most Lavish Hand

Washington, June 24.—A veto of the rivers and harbors bill and the public buildings bill would keep the appropriations of this session of congress slightly below those of last year. With these two bills becoming laws, the appropriations of the session will exceed those of last session by about $30,000,000.

Last year, when the appropriations went to $1,044,401,837.12, the country was started. On every side the demand went up for retrenchment. President Taft and the members of his cabinet joined in this demand. Many conferences were held and numerous plans for checking extravagance were proposed. But congress soon forgot all about the promise of retrenchment.

The seventeen appropriation bills for this year and the legislation providing for miscellaneous appropriations carry a total of $910,104,410, as against $882,943,131 for last year. To this amount is to be added the permanent annual appropriations, which brings the grand total for this session up to about $1,075,000,000.

LOCKED IN DEATH GRIP

Two Women Drowned and Would-Be Rescuer Revived With Difficulty

Annisquam, Mass., June 24.—Della Healey lost her life off Annisquam in a valiant attempt to save the life of Mary McKenna, who had slipped into the channel while in bathing.

Ralph Davis, who dived, clothes and all, after the two women; was also dragged under, and would have drowned with them but for the arrival of Ward Cunningham and Charles Browne.

Cunningham and Browne dived several times, finally securing all three bodies, locked together. Davis was resuscitated after half an hour, but the two women failed to respond to the efforts of four doctors who were called.

Miss Healey, who was 45, and Miss McKenna, 30, were maids in the employ of Countess De San Marzano.

JEFFRIES SNUBS

THE MIGHTY JOHN L.

Once Great Fighter Turned Down In Training Camp

Reno, Nev., June 24.—Former Champion John L. Sullivan was told by former Champion Corbett that his presence was not desired at the camp of former Champion Jeffries.

"Why?" asked Sullivan, as he stood at the gate that had been closed to bar him from Jeffries' cottage at Moana Springs.

"Because," said Corbett, "you have knocked the big fight and called it a fake. Jeffries wants me to say that he will not shake hands with you."

"That's a mistake. I've been misquoted," protested John L. "I don't believe you were misquoted," calmly answered Corbett, and after a brief colloquy, Sullivan returned to Reno with his manager, Frank Hall.

WORKED FROM CELLAR

Robbers Easily Got $14,000 From Boston Bank In Broad Daylight

Boston, June 24.—Fourteen thousand dollars' worth of Austrian and Italian paper currency was stolen yesterday afternoon from the private bank of Julius Rottenburg in Salem street. Some $30,000 had been placed in a show window, where it could be seen by persons passing on the street.

The thieves had gained entrance to the cellar of the store and had cut a hole 12 by 6 inches in the bottom of the show window, and then cautiously had reached up and taken the money within grasping distance.

Thousands of persons passed the window during the afternoon but no one noticed anything amiss. Two Italians are understood to be under suspicion.

JOSHUA HOLDEN STRICKEN

Leader in Massachusetts Politics Up to Few Years Ago

Boston, June 24.—Joshua Bennett Holden, one of Boston's richest and most prominent citizens, died of heart failure at his Back Bay home. The hot wave is believed to have overtaxed his heart while it weakened his vitality.

Holden was formerly a state senator. A few years ago he ranked with Republican leaders in this state. Of late he has not been prominent in politics. He was 60 years old and a native of Woburn. Although Holden was a rich man he was very democratic in his manner.

A Job For Faulkner—Washington, June 24.—R. P. Faulkner, chairman of the American commission to Liberia, has been appointed agent for the Liberian government in the negotiations looking to the refunding of the Liberian debt.

Morgan Is Home Again—New York, June 24.—Despite various reports that he was seriously ill in different parts of Europe, J. P. Morgan arrived here on the Adriatic apparently in the best of health.

EXETER

Exeter, June 23.—Albert Witham of Deerfield was in police court charged with beating his wife, on the night of June 21. He was brought here by Sheriff Spinyer, and looked up to await a hearing Thursday. County Solicitor Charles H. Batchelder appeared for the state, and Witham pleaded to the charge. Mr. Batchelder told the court the story of the case, the substance being that as supper was unprepared at a certain hour, Witham's fire was aroused, and he threw a pail of water on his wife, and struck her and also kicked her. The marks were, she testified on her then. It did not take the judge long to give his decision. "How much do you weigh?" he asked. "One hundred and eighty pounds," replied Witham. "One and eighty pounds and a wife beater," said the judge. "I think I'll fix the bail at $500. Witham was thus committed to jail to await the October term of superior court. Mrs. Witham was brought here by Deputy Sheriff George P. Harvey of Deerfield to appear in court, and complained of feeling unwell, also stating that her husband had ill-treated her for a long time past.

It seems doubtful if summer baseball in this section will receive much of a boom this season, and many of the amateur nines will not organize. The Exeter Clippers, it was thought would have a team, but as yet there has been no steps taken towards the organization. Stratham has been represented by a nine in the past years, and the games have been played at the Stratham Hill park, but no organization there as yet has appeared.

The first trouble in regard to the Fourth of July firecracker sale occurred today, when Joseph Rissety, an Italian merchant, was found to sell a cracker over an inch in diameter, and also a toy pistol, was before Judge Shute. This was purchased by Chief Gooch from a clerk in one of the branch stores. "Joe," who bears the reputation of being a good citizen, said that he was sold the cracker by a Boston firm, who told him it was in the limit of the New Hampshire law. He had, however, previously been warned by the chief to put away the crackers and toy pistols, but this the clerk neglected to do, and thought he had a right to sell to the chief, because he had a uniform on. The judge let "Joe" off, and he swore he would have the crackers and pistols put away.

Efforts are being made to have a band concert on the square next Tuesday afternoon, from 3 to 5 o'clock. It is class day at Phillips-Exeter, and the Xenian orchestra will be equipped with their musical instruments, with nothing to do between those hours, as the exercises are in the morning, and the ball in the evening. A paper will be circulated among academy authorities. It is thought to be a capital idea, as the town will be filled with many class-day guests, they coming from all parts of the country.

The Piscataqua river damming is being talked about very freely about town since the government boat made its visit here, and the meeting has been held in Portsmouth. For many reasons it would be a decided advantage to this town, and the towns along the banks from here to the city by the sea. There would be no muddy flats which are an eyesore at low tide, and the tide would be high continually, greatly facilitating shipping. It would not necessarily destroy all the fisheries, but this is an industry much on the wane, and carried on more for sport than it was in years past.

The soldier boys are to dance this evening when they will hold a "pop" dance at the town hall. They are making many arrangements for the occasion, it being the first dance held by the Third company, C. A. C., for a long period.

The funeral services of Josiah J. Folsom were held on Thursday at the home on High street, and were conducted by the Rev. Edward Green, pastor of the Unitarian church. Burial was in the cemetery here. The bearers were John W. Barker, Newell S. Tilton, Leonard F. Smith and Augustus W. Young.

The 17-months old child of John Page, a resident of the Epping road did on Thursday.

John E. Lary, a member of this year's graduating class of the high school, has taken a summer position with Callishaw and Page.

Miss Dorothy Harris of New York has taken charge of the cuisine department at Master's cafe.

The advance guard of the commencement visitors has arrived at the Squamscott house, and many preparations are being made to handle the guests there next week.

A NEW ERA

The world is entering upon a new era, as it has done so many times before.

The airship is a success, after so many hundred years of experiments. As told in our news columns yesterday, long distance passenger transportation has been established as a regular business proposition in Germany.

While it is still a long way from perfection, and many accidents must occur to teach the aviators the necessity of new devices and precautions, yet travel through the air is accomplished and it only remains to make improvements in the devices.

The problems of government are increased by this new development. The questions of the right of the land owner or tenant against trespass from above, of the enforcement of tariff laws and of new conditions of war, are three of the biggest jobs that have ever been laid out for parliaments, courts and ministries.

The most pressing of these questions is that of the value of fleets and fleets under the new order of things. How far can the airship go toward rendering them valueless, and how much can the army and navy do to destroy the efficiency of the airship?

It will be a long time, probably, before airships will cross the ocean, and the United States government will have ample opportunity to prepare for any necessary change.

For the present the greatest danger to the United States is from an attack by water of land and we must still keep up our protection against such.

BIRDSEYE VIEWS

There is no profit in opposing Diaz in Mexico. Madero, who was planning to run against him at the coming elections, has been thrown into prison, and had his property confiscated. It is perfectly safe to bet on Diaz' reelection as long as he can wield the big stick in this fashion.

Renominated for governor of Ohio and endorsed for the presidency by the state convention at Dayton, Mr. Harmon is unquestionably the leading candidate for the chief honors of the Democratic party in 1912. If he should be defeated next fall, or if Mayor Gaynor should be elected governor of New York, or if some other Democrat should suddenly achieve unexpected honors, the situation would be altered, of course; but at the present moment he is the one member of the party upon whom popular sentiment is concentrating. It is believed that he is of "presidential size," that he has demonstrated at Columbus the possession of a real talent for orderly and progressive administration, and that in spite of Mr. Bryan's dissatisfaction with his official course he can command the support of the great mass of Western radicals who have been accustomed to fall in behind the Nebraska leader. The simple fact is that Mr. Harmon is the big figure on the Democratic landscape today. It is seldom, however, that a man in that situation wins his party nomination two years later.

AMONG OUR EXCHANGES

Postal Savings Banks

The enactment of the postal savings banks bill marks the culmination of a movement that dates almost forty years back. In Grant's second term Postmaster General Cresswell gave the idea its official introduction to the American public. Several of his successors have renewed his recommendations, and Mr. Meyer when Postmaster General cast his influence so energetically in favor of postal savings banks as greatly to revive the somewhat languishing interest in the subject. He is entitled therefore to a considerable share of whatever credit attaches to the creation of a system of government depositories even if the provisions of the law are somewhat different from those which he advocated. Postal savings banks being on President Taft's program, he too, scores a success which will count in his favor in those regions where the facilities for thrift are few. The scheme of organization of the system which congress has just approved is a compromise between the senate and house in which the views of the latter preponderate.—Boston Transcript.

One of Taft's Triumphs

President Taft may be forgiven for any self satisfaction he may have felt when he signed the railroad bill. Its passage in any form through a congress which developed such unexpected and unaccountable opposition to the administration's policies would have been a tribute to the presidential qualities of laetfulness, but its return to him with all its essential features intact is really a triumph, considering the circumstances of its career.

The outlook now is that the session about to close will go into history as one of the most noteworthy in the matter of variety and progressiveness of legislation actually enacted. It is a much different prospect from the one that offered itself to the observer a very few weeks ago, and much of the changed aspect must be attributed to the good judgment of the president himself in handling a very difficult situation. It would have been easy for most men in Mr. Taft's place to lose control of their tempers under the strain of the crisis through which he has been passing, and a lost temper under such circumstances would assuredly have led to the most serious consequences for the Republican party, and temporarily, at least, for the country.

The president may enter upon his vacation with the satisfaction that comes of hard work well done and seemingly hopeless results achieved.—Detroit Free Press.

A BILLION DOLLAR CONGRESS

Washington, June 24.—Congress has signally failed in efforts at economy. At the beginning of the session a program to cut government expenditures was in full swing. President Taft had urged it. Members of his cabinet formed themselves into special committees to revise and curtail estimates.

But the pressure was too much. Congress has been appropriating money even more lavishly than it did at the last session. The figures show in the rough that there has been an increase in appropriations of about $30,000,000. This probably will carry the total considerably beyond the $1,000,000,000 mark.

The public building bill, still in conference, and the river and harbor bill, are largely responsible for the increase beyond last sessions. There was more or less national politics in both measures, especially in the public building bill.

The agricultural, consular and diplomatic, postoffice and legislative appropriation bills all carry larger totals than last year. Decreases have been made in the army, fortifications, military academy, navy, pensions, Indian, sundry civil and District of Columbia appropriation bills.

IT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

"We are told on good, if badly rhyming, authority, that 'Of all the words of tongue and pen'—The saddest are: It might have been.'"

And certainly there is nothing more tragic, irritating and altogether undesirable than the sensation one has on discovering that he has been undergoing trials and inconveniences that could easily have been avoided.

It would pay us to take a little time off occasionally and see if all the hard pieces in our daily path are also indispensable.

For instance, you may be worrying along with old-fashioned lighting—dirty, unhealthy, flickering kerosene lamps. It means constant work and trouble, cleaning and filling them. It means danger of fire, and it means mortification because of your soot-covered walls, and expense for cleaning, renovating and redecorating.

Kerosene lamps mean that everlasting succession of little annoyances—difficulties in trying to light them; flames that either smoke or are dim—which spoil an evening's comfort every time.

Yet still you go on submitting to them, when at little expense for wiring and at about the same monthly cost, you might have had the best, cleanest, most beautiful and most economical light in the world—electric light.

Don't put up with oil lamps any longer.

You'll come to using electric lights sooner or later—make it sooner. Don't add unnecessarily to the years during which you might have been using electric light.

Electric Sign advertising is no longer an experiment. The most successful firms of world-wide reputation as well as the stores with whom we have done business give us facts that prove the advertising worth of Electric Signs to be far in excess of any method of advertising that has ever been devised for the amount expended.

Look for the most enterprising city of today and you will find one that uses Electric Signs on all available locations and where merchants appreciate the advertising value and use light. I am making and selling the best signs that can be produced, not the cheapest, cut signs that will stand up and give service for years. Recent inventions have reduced the cost and also the cost of maintaining. Public spirit and civic pride demand well lighted business sections in our cities, why not do your part with a well lighted, artistic Electric Sign and increase your business as well.

I charge nothing for estimates or sketches and am always willing to explain details and serve your interests. Respectfully yours.

JOINT FIELD DAY A SUCCESS

Alpha Council of This City and Major Waldron Council, Royal Arcanum, of Dover, Have Fine Time.

The annual joint field day of the Major Waldron Council, Royal Arcanum of Dover and the Alpha Council, Royal Arcanum, of this city, was held on Thursday at Central park in Dover, and it was one of the most successful affairs ever held by the two councils. In the first place, there was ideal weather, and a big attendance about seventy-five being present from this city and as many more from Dover. The locals went up on the noon train and returned at midnight on a special car over the Atlantic Shore line railway.

The first event of importance was the baseball game between the teams from the two councils, and the Alpha Council team "were the Speed Boys" and copped the game by a score of 1 to 11, and it went the full nine innings.

The relay race was another victory for the Alpha Council, the winning team being Will Woods, Pearl Hersey, Frank Hersey and Edwin P. Church.

Pearl Hersey captured another event for his council with a win in the ball throwing contest and the ladies' bowling contest was won by Miss Hersey of this city. In the fat man's potato race, Deputy Supreme, Regent D. C. Beckworth, won the bushel of potatoes, the prize.

Dover won the running dashes, but the locals had the most points on all the other events.

At six o'clock supper was served and there were 150 present. This was followed by dancing until eleven o'clock and everybody was well pleased with the time, which they consider the most successful one for years.

SLACK WATER NAVIGATION

One of the Arguments Made for It at Hearing

Some points in the paper of O. L. Frisbee filled with the board of engineers at the public hearing on the proposed dam, June 21:

Mr. Frisbee reminded them that all the business organizations of the city, the National Association of Master Mates and Pilots, the masters of vessels sailing at this port, the state of New Hampshire and state of Maine, Colonel Thon, U. S. engineer at this district in 1882, and his successor, Colonel Blunt in 1883, endorsed slack water for the port of Portsmouth.

He filed a letter of ex-Governor Hill of Maine, saying it was feasible and would repay the outlay.

He reminded the board that this congress on the recommendation of the U. S. engineers 1910 had appropriated $10,000,000 for ten of the great harbors of the country, $5,000,000 for the lesser harbors of the country and Portsmouth harbor gets $600,000. But Portsmouth harbor stood in neither of these, she was in a class by herself, and the greatest harbor of the country.

He reminded them of appropriation in 1910, $5,000,000 for the rivers that enter into the Atlantic and not a dollar for the Piscataqua river.

The commerce of this port had nearly doubled in the last 15 years from 300,000 tons to 500,000 tons with no expenditures by the government; and if they had given us slack water navigation 25 years ago at a cost of $700,000, we would have a commerce of several millions now instead of a half a million. He reminded them that the Piscataqua river had more commerce than any of the rivers of New England, where they have spent over half a million of dollars on some of them while they had spent nothing on our river.

With an area of only 62,000 square miles, the New England states now have a population of over 6,000,000 and an aggregate wealth of over $10,000,000,000. The want of these facilities are detrimental to the growth of a state.

The cry of the nation is cheap transportation, and New Hampshire must have to compete with the rest of the country and she can only get it through this port.

New Hampshire, is an industrial state, and Portsmouth is the nearest port to those industries and a large section of the manufacturers of New England. New Hampshire has the largest cotton, woolen and paper mills in the world. The Merrimack river runs more mill machinery than any river in the world, and is the basis of an investment of $142,000,000, and 100,000 people dwell in cities along its bank.

Portsmouth is the natural port of all goods to and from New Hampshire, Vermont and south western Maine, and would give a million of people cheap transportation, if you will give us slack water navigation at this port.

The cotton district of New Hampshire, the center of which is Manchester, the commercial metropolis and industrial center of northern New England, is as near to this port as the cotton district of Lancaster, the center of which is Manchester is to the port of Liverpool which handled all her commerce before they built the Manchester ship canal at a cost of $75,000,000. Now the cotton districts of England get their cotton cheaper than the cotton districts of New Hampshire. We can reverse these conditions if you will give us slack water at this port.

The two great resources of the state are her abundant water power and her great port. They will reach their fullest development when they become handmaids of each other. The five great rivers that furnish the backbone of the industries of New England and raises in and passes through our state and furnished 37-1/2 per cent of the water power of the country. This water power of our rivers is not fully developed. When it is and harnessed to electricity and applied to industry, as the Connecticut river has been, it will turn the whole state into one large town, and New Hampshire will become the Belgium of America and we want Portsmouth to keep pace with her and become the Antwerp of America.

Commerce is prospective on the Mississippi river and her tributaries. The conditions are in favor of the Piscataqua. But you make flesh of one and fowl of the other. The U. S. engineer recommends nothing for the Piscataqua and recommends 3-10 of the river and harbor bill of 1880, or over $15,000,000 as a starter to revive the commerce of the father of waters and her tributaries.

We wish to remind you that New Hampshire was here before the states of the Mississippi valley were thought of, that she fought in all the wars of the colonies and have been on the side of old glory since it first floated. We think we have a strong case and a righteous demand, if you refuse us you put in jeopardy the happiness and prosperity of a large army of people by refusing them cheap transportation.

LET THE YAWN COME.

A Good One is a Splendid Thing For the Whole Body.

A good, wide, open mouthed yawn is a splendid thing for the whole body. A yawn is nature's demand for rest. Some people think they only yawn because they are sleepy, but this is not so. You yawn because you are tired. You may be sleepy also, but that is not the real cause of your yawning. You are sleepy because you are tired, and you yawn because you are tired.

Whenever you feel like yawning just yawn. Don't try to suppress it because you think it is impolite to yawn. Put your hand over your mouth if you want to, but let the yawn come. And if you are where you can stretch at the same time that you yawn just stretch and yawn. This is nature's way of stretching and relaxing the muscles. Don't be afraid to open your mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawning, there is nothing that will rest you so quickly as to sit on a straight back chair and, lifting your feet from the floor, push them out in front of you as far as possible, stretch the arms, put the head back, open the mouth wide and make yourself yawn.

Those tense nerves will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Do this two or three times when you are tired and see what it will do for you.

Close Ranks.

At one stage in the siege of Richmond mines were planted to prevent the advance of the Union forces. Sometimes they were set very close together. On the occasion of an advance by one division a mine exploded, sending several men high in the air. Immediately after another went off, and the detachment coming down met those going up, and it is reported that the first fellows called after their comrades as they passed that humiliating epithet of the campaign: "Stragglers!"—Circle Magazine.

Her Husband Was Not In. "Husband in?" asked the gas collector cheerfully.

"No," answered the woman; "he isn't at home."

"Expecting him soon?" asked the collector.

"Well," the woman replied thoughtfully, "I don't know exactly. I've been looking for him seventeen years, and he hasn't turned up yet. You travel about a good deal, and if you see a man who looks as though he'd make a pretty good husband tell him I'm still awaiting and send him along."

CHARLTON CONFESSED
HE KILLED HIS WIFEMystery of the Italian Lake Murder
Cleared Up By His Arrest in New York.

New York, June 24.—Porter Charlton, the husband of Mary Scott Castle Charlton, the American woman murdered and thrown into Lake Como, Italy, was arrested at Hoboken, N. J., yesterday as he landed from the Princess Alice of the Bremen Steamship company, and twenty-five minutes later he made a full statement, confessing that he had murdered his wife.

At First Protested His Innocence.

At first Charlton protested that he was not the man wanted, and that he was Thomas Coleman, but a search brought out no letter or card to show that he was Coleman and did bring out a case with the initials "P. C." on it. Then he said to the chief:

"I admit that I am the man you want. I am Porter Charlton. Charlton showed no fear and was cool and collected. He at first stoutly protested his innocence of the murder.

"I did not kill my wife," he said under heavy questioning, "and I know nothing of how she was murdered."

Chief Hayes kept at the prisoner and finally Charlton said he desired to make a statement and have it in writing. Witnesses and pen and ink were brought quickly.

Captain Henry Harrison Scott, U. S. A., brother of the murdered woman, when told by Chief of Police Hayes at headquarters that the man arrested was undoubtedly the young Washington man, cried:

"I'll blow out his brains," and then whipped out of his pocket a big army revolver.

Quick Work Saves Charlton.

Charlton's life was saved only by the quick work of the chief and his detectives who were in the room. They fell upon the army officer as one man, disarmed him and placed him in custody.

Charlton's arrest was the result of cable advice from Scotland Yard after the sailing of the Princess Alice. The Scotland Yard men had secured information that a man resembling Charlton had booked passage on the ship. Knowing the boat was due today, Captain Scott and three Hoboken detectives went to the Bremen pier and watched the passengers leave the ship. All of them had good descriptions and pictures of the man they wanted and they easily picked out the right one from the crowd.

Charlton at first laughingly denied that he was Charlton, but the laughter left his lips, and when he reached police headquarters and found that he was in a net from which he could not possibly extricate himself.

Had Two Dress Suit Cases.

Charlton was pointed out by Captain Scott as he stepped off the gangplank. The man drew back when the officers approached him and laughed. "I am not Charlton," he said, "you have made a mistake."

But he answered in detail the pictures and descriptions of Charlton, who was known to Captain Scott.

Detective Sergeants Weinthal, Garrett and Fallon, assigned to the case by Chief of Police Hayes, took their prisoner to police headquarters. The prisoner carried two dress suit cases, was neatly dressed and of refined manner. He kept his calmness until put through a "third degree" examination by Chief Hayes. His nerve had been shaken by the attempt of Captain to kill him.

"I'll tell you everything," he finally cried. "I can't hide it any longer. It is too terrible a secret to keep."

He then dictated a long statement, telling how he killed Mrs. Charlton, and signed it.

Charlton completely exonerated the Russian, Ispoltoff, who was arrested in Italy after the murder was discovered. Here is his confession:

"My name is Porter Charlton, twenty-one years old. I reside at No. 204 West Fifty-fifth street. My wife and I lived very happily together near Lake Como, Italy. But she had a very ungovernable temper.

Charlton's Story of Tragedy.

"I also have an ungovernable temper. She used such degrading language that it was revolting to me to listen to it, and I know that she did not know the meaning of it. The night I killed her, her language was something terrible. I told her that she would have to stop or I would put a stop to it. She did stop for a while but then started to berate more than ever in a very short time afterward. I struck her on the head with a wooden mallet. I struck her two or three times and thought she was dead.

"The mallet I hit her with was one that I had been using to straighten the leg of a couch that we had been using. I then put her body in the trunk and threw the mallet in with the body. I then dragged the trunk out of the house and to a small dock that was right near the house. I threw it into the lake. I then went back to the house and stayed in Como the next day. The following day I started in the direction of my own country.

"I see that Ispoltoff has been arrested, but he is entirely innocent, as he had nothing whatever to do with it. I am guilty. I have no defence and I want none.

"Porter Charlton."

D. C. REMICH TALKS

On Railroads and the Making of Investments at Home.

"To invest ones money at home instead abroad is the way to make a big bag," declared Daniel C. Remich of Littleton, N. H., in an address before the Chamber of Commerce Assembly at the American House Wednesday noon.

Mr. Remich former campaign manager of Winston Churchill, said that politically he was opposed to Mayor Fitzgerald and, if a citizen here, would have fought him tooth and nail, but he said, "the mayor has ideas about building up your city which are illuminating."

He was severe in his arraignment of the Boston and Maine railroad, insisting that it would not help a community unless forced to and felt that the merger with the New Haven would better things in this respect as far as New Hampshire is concerned.

SEEKING MARINE RECRUITS

Permanent Station Will Be Established in Manchester.

Manchester, June 24.—Manchester has been selected as the headquarters for a recruiting campaign for the marine corps that is to be conducted throughout northern New England. Capt. William Brackett of the marines arrived here this week to establish such a station. He expects to have all in readiness by July 1, when a number of assistants will join him to prosecute the work. It is the first time that any attempt at recruiting by this branch of the service has been attempted in this section, the accessions hitherto being chiefly from the middle west. It is the intention to make the station here a permanent one, as recent congressional action increasing the possible membership of the marine corps is expected to furnish an abundance of work of that character. From here the recruiting officers will go to make solicitations in the cities of Nashua, Lowell, and other centers.

Captain Brackett expects recruiting will be easy at this time, as a battalion of marines will accompany the fleet which goes abroad in October. He has never been in New Hampshire before, although his ancestors were Lancaster people. He will bring his family to reside here.

MAYOR HOWARD NOT GUILTY

Charge of Criminal Libel Against Salem's Mayor Unsustained.

Salem, Mass., June 24.—After being out fourteen hours considering the testimony offered in the criminal libel suit brought against Mayor Arthur Howard of this city by Robin Damon, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty on Wednesday. The case had been on trial for more than a week. Mr. Damon, who is the manager of the Salem News, alleged that Mayor Howard, who before receiving the mayoralty office was also connected with newspaper work, printed scurrilous articles about him.

IS NOW PRINCE OF WALES

Eldest Son of King George and Heir to British Throne Given the Title by His Father.

London, June 23.—It is officially announced that King George has created his eldest son, the duke of Cornwall, prince of Wales and earl of Chester.

The new prince of Wales, the eldest son of King George V., is Edward Albert Christian George Andrew Patrick David. He was born at White Lodge, Sheen, June 23, 1894, so his accession to his new title is in the nature of a birthday present. Previously to his grandfather's death he was duke of Saxony and prince of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha as well as of England and of Wales. His father's accession to the throne made him prince of Wales, duke of Cornwall, duke of Rothesay, earl of Warwick, Baron of Renfrew, lord of the isles and prince and great steward or seneschal of Scotland, as also a knight of the garter.

The heir apparent to the throne of England, if the eldest, living son of Prince of Wales, but only by "indivisible investment." The title as well as that of earl of Chester is conferred at the sovereign's pleasure. Edward VII. did not give them to his son George until nearly a year after Queen Victoria's death. The patent of investiture sets forth that the recipient is confirmed in the titles by the "ensigns of honor, the girding on of a sword, the delivering of a cap and placing it on his head, with a ring on his finger and a golden staff in his hand according to custom."

HERE WITH A PATROL BOAT

Captain George Hill With His Volunteer Life Patrol Boat

Captain George Hill of the Volunteer Life-Saving service arrived here on Thursday evening in his new boat, the Imelda. She is forty feet long and equipped with a 10 horse power engine and can make about twelve knots an hour. The craft will be used this summer in patrol the coast from Salisbury to York Beach, and will act in conjunction with the shore patrol maintained by the association.

TAFT HAPPY
ONCE MORE

Washington, June 21.—To a visitor for the President grew reminiscent. The caller congratulated the President upon the evident turn in his political fortunes and the praise that he was now receiving as compared with the attacks that had been made upon him a short time ago, when everything appeared to be going wrong.

The President smiled and admitted that things seemed to be coming his way somewhat, and then recalled his first year in the Philippines as governor general.

He had been able to please nobody and had displeased everybody. The army, the civil establishment and the natives were alike down upon him. The army thought the governor was too lenient and the natives believed he was too severe.

It was about this time that a song was sung in the army that was almost treasonable. It was called "The Little Brown Brother" and it had a sort of Kipling-like swing to it and there was a refrain which ran:

"He may be a brother of William H. Taft,

But he ain't no brother of mine."

The author was content to go with unrewarded fame. Finally the war department put its foot down on "The Little Brown Brother." If officers and men sang and whistles it they did it when no one was supposed to hear.

About the time that the army was showing its contempt for the civil government of the islands the natives were preparing to hang the governor general in effigy. Mr. Taft knew exactly what was going on, but he gave no sign that he knew or made no betrayal of his feelings. He just went about his affairs saying nothing, working 16 hours a day trying to bring order and secure the goodwill of the natives, feeling keenly the criticisms, for he is a sensitive man, but trusting to time to make things even and bring its vindication.

The vindication came sooner, perhaps than Mr. Taft expected. When he left the Philippines to become secretary of war the little brown brother who had wanted to hang him in effigy had canonized him, and to the Philippines he was "Sancta Taft," so much had he endeared himself to them; and army officers and civilians saw the work that he had done and appreciated it. When Mr. Taft went back to the Philippines a second time he received a reception that was unparalleled.

Mr. Taft's experience in his first year in the White House has been very similar to that in the Philippines. He has had a pretty tough time of it. His friends seemed few and his enemies legion.

In the Philippines army officers wanted him to shoot a few Filipinos for an example to the others; in Washington regulars wanted him to send a few insurgents out of the party for the good of the rest, and insurgents wanted him to play football with the regulars to show that he was a reformer.

Mr. Taft refused to follow the advice of either insurgents or regulars, and of course pleased neither. But both agreed that he was a gonner and didn't hesitate to tell him so. It hasn't been exactly a cheerful time that Mr. Taft has had in the past year.

Things have suddenly changed, there is no doubt about that. Mr. Taft is a modest man and he doesn't say that at the end of his term he will be as popular with his party as he was with the army and the Filipinos when he relinquished the governor generalship, but that is the prediction made by his friends. Mr. Taft has always believed that he must trust to time for his vindication and that in the end justice will be done him.

Meanwhile he has regarded the carrying out of the legislative program as the one important thing to be done and he felt that his policy of conciliation and firmness would win out in the end. The regulars now go to the White House these days and thank Mr. Taft for what he has done and the insurgents are climbing on the Taft band wagon.

It may be added as a historical note that the bun has been lifted by the war department from "The Little Brown Brother." They sing it at the army banquets, at which Mr. Taft attends. And Mr. Taft smiles when he hears it and grows thoughtful.

REPLANNING A FARM.

Points That Must Be Borne in Mind When Change Is Sought.

In "Replanning a Farm For Profit," the title of farmers' bulletin No. 370, issued by the United States department of agriculture, the matter of changing the type of agriculture on a farm when the old is found to be no longer profitable is treated. The bulletin says:

Habit frequently continues a type of farming in a community long after that type has become unprofitable. Wheat farming on fertile virgin soil is usually profitable, but there are many instances in the United States where farmers have continued to grow wheat for a number of years after it had ceased to be a profitable crop. The same is true of cotton. A two year rotation of corn and oats has been continued in portions of the corn belt notwithstanding the fact that it is often unprofitable, little or no money being made on either crop. Frequently these unprofitable types of farming continue through a series of years or until the property changes hands or new methods are introduced. The farmer finds it hard to change a lifelong habit.

A man who has grown up with the agriculture of a community is slow to believe that the type of farming he has followed and which was at one time profitable has at last become unsuited to his conditions. It is no small task to think out and change his long used type to some better kind of farming. There are several reasons why such a change is difficult. It may mean a new line of equipment. Buildings may need modification or fences must be rearranged. It may mean the introduction of commercial fertilizers or of more or different live stock on the farm. It may mean that money will have to be borrowed if the proposed changes are effected. Furthermore, the change may not succeed. At best the taking up of a new line of farming requires a readjustment of the usual ways of thinking and doing, a thing difficult in itself and requiring considerable time to accomplish.

Notwithstanding habit may set the farmer in his ways, altered conditions and lessened yield and income may compel him to change his system or go out of business. To what shall he change? How shall he go about it? What type of farming is likely to prove more profitable than the kind he is now following? What additional capital is necessary to institute a new and better system? These are the questions that confront him. They are difficult to answer. With pencil and paper in hand he may estimate the returns that may reasonably be expected by introducing more crops that build up the land, by growing more of the crop that is bringing him in the greatest amount of money, by giving more attention to the live stock that has been found to pay best and the like.

If in these calculations he meets with difficulty because of a lack of definite information as to what may be reasonably expected when improved methods are applied in the culture of a crop or in the handling of stock he may write to the agricultural college or the board of agriculture or the agricultural experiment station of his own state or to the United States department of agriculture for help. It is the business of these institutions to discover and gather facts relative to the science, practice and business of agriculture for the benefit of the farmer and particularly for the farmer who wants to improve his methods of farming. The agricultural press also undertakes to aid the farmer in the solution of problems of this character.

In addition to these sources, a few private firms have been established whose business it is to furnish expert advice on farm management for a consideration. Not always, however, are the institutions just mentioned prepared to give the farmer information on a plan covering his whole farm. The expert dairyman cares to give advice only on dairying, the entomologist only on insects and spraying, the agronomist only on field crops, the pathologist only on plant diseases, the shepherd only on sheep. Not many care to attempt to co-ordinate all the manifold interests of the farm into a single comprehensive farm plan, and yet this is exactly what the farmer must do every day of his life if he would get the most out of his farm and make farming pay.

The farmer is not simply a corn farmer or a wheat grower or a cattle breeder or a sheep breeder or a poultry raiser, but often all of these and more combined. His farm, therefore, must be planned with reference to all of these operations and the harmonious dovetailing together of the different parts. In replanning his farm for profit the farmer must see all these different problems in a comprehensive way at the outset, omit the features that do not pay and strengthen those that do.

Fortunately many of our agricultural colleges today are co-ordinating the work of their different departments and giving courses in farm management, and usually suggestions can be obtained from these sources relative to the general management of the farm—not necessarily detailed directions for farming for it would be as difficult to tell a man how to farm as it is to tell him how to succeed in life, but rather to furnish him a comprehensive plan for managing his farm, corresponding in a way to the plan furnished by the architect to a builder. It is often said that a farm cannot be planned as other kinds of business are; that the vicissitudes of weather, the visitations of insect pests or plant diseases, the low prices that may prevail when the farmer has to sell and other unforeseen circumstances may interfere to make all farm plans almost worthless from a practical standpoint.

This is often quite true with reference to plans made for a particular year. But when the plans are based on average conditions for a long series of years then the objections do not hold, for, while we cannot tell what may happen during any particular season, we can forecast with considerable accuracy what the average conditions will be over a series, say, of ten years. The whole business of insurance is based on the reliability of averages. It cannot be foretold just who out of a thousand persons will die next year, but it can be stated with much certainty about how many persons out of the thousand will die. Plans for the farm likewise must represent and be based on average conditions and not on single years. The farm plan must be made for a period of years and not for a single year.

In replanning a farm it is essential that a few fundamental points in farming be kept constantly in mind:

First.—The plan should provide a reasonable reward for the labor and capital invested.

Second.—The fertility of the farm should be maintained or increased.

Third.—The plan must be suited to the capabilities of the owner for carrying it out.

It is assumed that in order to replan a farm for profit it is necessary to consider the capabilities of the farmer to put the new plan into effect. This in general will render it necessary to recombine the phases of farming with which he is already familiar or to bring in new features which are not very dissimilar to the ones he is already accustomed to.

Judging Corn Seeds. One of the first points a judge of corn should give attention to is the seed condition of samples. Is the germ sound, and will it produce a good plant? A germination test is the best means of settling these questions, but unfortunately cannot be employed while one is judging corn shows. The farmer should test every ear he plants.

If the germ is slender and small the plant is likely to lack vitality. Thin seeds tending to their attachment produce weak germs, and consequently ears with such seeds must be discarded.

A GOOD TYPE OF CORN KERNEL.

inated against in scoring exhibits. The seed should be deep, but it must also be of medium width and thickness, for upon this depend the size of the germ and the amount of food stored in the seed for the early maintenance of the plant. But sometimes seeds of good width and thickness have small germs and should therefore be rejected in favor of seeds of the same form, but with larger germs.

Badly matured seeds sometimes present small, blister-like eminences over the germ, due to a separation of the cuticle from its attachment. Again, if the whole area over the germ is deeply sunken it indicates lack of maturity and consequent excessive shrinkage. Failure of the grain to separate readily from the cob is another indication of lack of ripeness. A brown or pink discoloration about the germ or the attached end of the seed is very objectionable, as is also the presence of mold or rotten seeds.

Salt For the Animals. Salt is necessary to the health and thrift of domestic animals, and they should have it in winter as well as in summer. They need more of it probably during the period of abundant succulent feed, but the animal system requires more or less of it all the time. A good plan is to keep salt in sheltered boxes where the stock can get at it at will. This is a safeguard against neglect, and, being accustomed to it at pleasure, there is no danger that too much will be taken.

The Asparagus Beetle. The asparagus beetle is a troublesome pest and hard to fight. Clean cutting, especially in ridge culture, keeps them well under control in spring, but considerable harm is done later on by slugs or larvae. Poultry are very fond of these beetles, and a few fowls will soon capture the mature insects if allowed in a garden bed.

THE THEATRE WAR IS SETTLED MIDSHIPMEN

Agreement Reached Between Syndicate and Independents.

New York, June 24.—The war that has been raging in the theatrical world is about to come to an end. Peace is hovering on the outskirts of the opposing camps of "independents" and syndicate, and the meetings are being held under an armistice looking toward an agreement that will be a capitulation for neither side but a reconciliation of personal difficulties for the sake of the general good.

In fact, there was a very definite rumor current yesterday that the peace had already come, and that an agreement had been reached whereby Klaw and Erlanger would permit syndicate producers to book their attractions in independent theatres in such towns as do not have syndicate houses. It was said that a meeting had been held Wednesday afternoon, at which such a statement was made to a number of managers, but no official confirmation could be obtained. That conferences were being held looking toward the establishment of a working agreement between syndicate managers and the Theatre Owners' association was acknowledged, but it was stated that the actual agreement had not yet been made.

One syndicate manager, however, Henry W. Savage, made a definite statement that he would book his attractions in both syndicate and independent houses.

Although no official statement could be obtained from Klaw and Erlanger last night, it is understood that they are satisfied with the agreement made by Col. Savage. Joseph Brooks, who is close to "K. & E.," said that peace was about to be declared in the whole theatrical war.

ANOTHER GAMBLER INDICTED

Boston, June 24.—The indictment against Martin J. Walsh, otherwise known as "Jack Leonard," and four against other persons, one Francis J. Wood, were returned by the United States grand jury which reported to Judge Colt of the circuit court Thursday.

Walsh is charged in both indictments with aiding and abetting George W. Coleman in the misapplication of the funds of the National City Bank of Cambridge, the charge being the same as that on which "Big Ed" Kellher was recently convicted. One indictment against Walsh contains 31 counts covering amounts aggregating $106,200, said to have been misapplied between June 3, 1909, and December 31, 1909. The other indictment contains five counts covering the misapplication of $13,000 of the bank's funds between Jan. 4 and Feb. 7, 1910.

United States Attorney French and his assistant, William H. Garland, refused to give much information regarding the four other indictments, other than to admit that they relate to the wrecking of the bank or to circumstances arising from the trial of William J. Kellher, and that one, against Wood, charges perjury. Charges will be issued at once, according to Mr. Garland, and it is probable that those of the defendants who are in the jurisdiction of the court will be arrested before night.

When the foreman of the grand jury handed the report to Judge Colt, U. S. Atty. French informed the court that the government did not desire to ask for arraignments at that time and requested that the grand jury be excused, subject to further call, if necessary.

IN ENGLAND

Plymouth, Eng., June 24.—The American battleships Indiana, Massachusetts and Iowa, with 500 midshipmen from the U. S. naval academy at Annapolis, Md., have arrived here. The young sailors are having their summer practice cruise. The squadron is commanded by Rear Admiral Clark.

The squadron sailed from Hampton Roads on June 9. The young men were given a taste of rough weather in what was for most of them their first trip across the Atlantic. One midshipman on the flagship Iowa suffered from an intermittent fever, and though he was practically convalescent upon his arrival here, he was removed to the naval hospital at Stonehouse, in order that he might fully recuperate.

The local authorities are planning a round of entertainments for the visitors. The midshipmen will be the guests at a dinner by the lord mayor of London.

MAKING PERFUMER.

A Simple Process That May Be Carried on at Home.

The manufacture of perfumery has always seemed a difficult process to many, and without doubt the blending of certain kinds of perfumes is a matter of much scientific and skillful manipulation. But, on the other hand, as most commonly used, perfumes can be made at home with simple apparatus and without much expense or trouble. In many parts of the country flowers are so abundant that one can harvest all that are needed for manufacturing at home perfumes enough for a year's use.

In many parts of the country roses have so luxuriantly that they can be seen with them and an abundant crop raised. In other sections the rose is so slow growing for this purpose, but the violet takes its place. Again, it must be the jasmine, the tuberose, the orange blossom or lavender. What-per flower it is that thrives and possesses delicate but powerful fragrance could be chosen for the work. Direct distillation is the most satisfactory way of making perfumery. The still is a simple affair, and it can be made out of articles found in the average home. Take an ordinary tin can, snout it and purify it of all oil doors. Stop the snout completely and it is a cork in the top, through which the oil is poured. From a hardware store get four feet of copper tubing (tin or galvanized iron pipe may also be used). The tube should be bent downward at the ends.

The tin can should be filled with a pound of flower petals gathered fresh in the early morning. Pour over these petals eight fluid ounces of alcohol. Then put the can in a saucepan half filled with water and place on a stove where the water can be kept at the boiling point. A hole should be cut through the cork of the can just large enough to receive the metal tube. Place a quart jar on a table near by and insert in it the other end of the tubing. This jar should not be sealed, as distillation will not go on properly.

When the water boils the alcohol in the can is heated, and this process extracts the perfume from the flower petals and gradually causes distillation through the tube into the cold jar on the table. The alcohol thus distilled will carry with it the true odor of the flowers. Alcohol has a peculiar property of extracting and holding the scent of flowers. As fast as distillation goes on the contents of the jar should be emptied into glass bottles and securely corked and sealed with paraffin. In blending perfumes of several flowers do the mixing after each one has been distilled separately. Do not mix the flowers in one still.

Concrete Telegraph Poles.

The Pennsylvania railroad system, in order to provide against timber scarcity, has on the lines west of Pittsburgh placed in experimental service a number of concrete telegraph poles through New Brighton, Pa. The destruction of the poles has followed a series of elaborate experiments which have been conducted during the past two years.

According to the experiments made so far, it is thought that a concrete telegraph pole will last for many generations, thereby doing away with the frequent renewals necessary with wooden poles. Much importance is also attached to the increased strength of the new poles, which hold the strain of the line even on curves, without swaying. Railway and Locomotive Engineering.

Magnetism and Petroleum.

Dr. C. F. Becker, discussing the possibility that petroleum may be derived from carbides of iron or other metals, points out that Bauer's map of magnetic declination in the United States "proves that petroleum is intimately associated with magnetic disturbances similar to those arising from the neighborhood of mineral possessing sensible magnetic attraction," and he adds that henceforth no geological theory of petroleum will be acceptable which does not explain this association. A writer in Nature remarks that if these conclusions are confirmed a new and important sphere of usefulness for magnetic surveys will be opened.

Spot Welding.

A kind of electric riveting has recently developed and is claimed to give results usually much stronger than joining with iron or copper rivets. The process is known as spot welding. The metal plates to be joined are placed in position, and on pressing the electrodes against any desired point the plates are almost instantly fused and permanently united at that point. The electrodes are moved from place to place, supplying perfect union instead of riveting. The process is rapid and seems to be satisfactory where water tight joints are unnecessary.

Friction of Solid Bodies.

When one solid body glides over the surface of another the coefficient of friction diminishes as the velocity increases and nearly vanishes when the velocity attains a certain critical value. This diminution of friction is due to the air, which partially separates the two bodies at low relative velocities and separates them completely at the critical and all higher velocities. AT NAVY YARD

Was at Portsmouth Yard

Chief Sailmaker John C. Herbert, U. S. N., retired, died recently at Philadelphia. He was stationed at this yard during part of the time of the civil war.

Who's Got the Cold Feet?

It is still undecided which of the ships, the New Hampshire or the Marietta has the goods on baseball. The challenges which were flying thick and fast a short time ago are in cold storage and unless another fever breaks out all the games between the sides of these two ships will be played on the deck of the vessels.

More Sent to the Rifle Range

Fifteen more of the crew of the U. S. S. New Hampshire will leave Sunday for the rifle range at Wakefield, Mass., where they will engage in target practice until July 19.

Docking and Shifting

Today was moving day along the yard water front. The U. S. S. New Hampshire was put in the dry dock at 9.30 a. m., the Maine shifted to the North side of the station pier and the Wisconsin shifted to the berth of the Maine. The collier Hannibal was moved to the dock of the coal plant from the shears wharf.

On the Wabash

Daniel Muxey, a coal passer of the U. S. S. New Hampshire, has been transferred to the Wabash at Boston.

Contractors Quit the Job

It is reported about the yard today that the firm of Marcello and Lizio of this city, who have been doing the excavating on the site for the new hospital, have given up the contract on the work.

Called Three Today

The labor board today issued calls for two boilermakers' helpers, and one chiller and calker.

Refused to Use Chart

Owing to the skipper of the Yeast Cake refusing to use the chart, and as the result of queer navigation or late, a new commander is at the steering wheel.

A Short Visit at Yard

Captain W. H. Jaques of North Hampton was a visitor at the yard today.

An Error in the Name

In recording the name of the contracting firm on the old pattern shop on Thursday an error occurred in the same which should have read H. P. Converse and company of Boston, and not Connors and company.

New Guns for Marietta

The gunboat Marietta is to have some new guns. This work just authorized will probably keep the vessel here until the first of August or later.

CONTROL OF N. H. FOREST FIRES

Concord, June 23.—State Forester Edgar C. Hirst has prepared a map showing the location of the present forest fire control stations and those which he desires to add to the system, the number being thirteen of the former class and five of the latter.

The thirteen which are in operation, in course of instruction, or for which the money has been subscribed, are located in Pittsburg, Dixville, Millsfield, on the peaks of Mounts Madison and Washington, in Bethlehem, Bartlett, Limerick, Benton and Croydon.

These are so placed so as to command a wide view and to practically protect the northern section of the state from forest fire loss, although the chain will be more complete if Forester Hirst can secure the funds necessary to build stations in Sandwich, on Moseleauke, in Albany and in Bean's Purchase.

For those authorized, the work of equipping them with telephones and other appliances is being pushed in order to have them in readiness before the forest fire season opens in the fall, and the forester is confident that this will be done, as the big lumber operators in the North Country, who are footing the bills, made a personal interest in the matter.

Returns from forest fires for the first six months of the year are now being received and tabulated by the forester and his assistants. These will show heavy losses in the lower counties by reason of the unusually early spring and the continued stretch of dry weather.

The lateness of the season in the northern districts and the long spell of damp weather, operated to reduce fire losses in the forest covers of that section and with the control stations in working order the forester is confident that the timberland owners and lumber operators will get by this year without serious damage.

George W. Clark and M. H. Brickett, the two Portland men, whose walk to Portsmouth was reported in this paper yesterday, started for home on the 1.55 ferryboat of the Atlantic Shore Line railway this afternoon, planning to make the entire ride by trolley cars.

They have walked about Portsmouth and vicinity considerably in the last two days, seeing the historic buildings and places, visiting the forts and navy yard and got generally acquainted with the good old town. They are delighted and plan to come here again.

ASSAULT AT DOVER

Man Named Higginbottom is Held on a Serious Charge.

Dover, June 23.—Joseph Higginbottom, familiarly known as Pie Cotter, was arrested in a local lunch room by Policemen Chesley and Scanlon, and arraigned in court for a criminal offense. His victim was Annie McSorley, aged 16, years the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McSorley. Higginbottom pleaded not guilty and the case was continued until tomorrow morning. As near as the police have been able to learn, the McSorley girl was enticed, at night, to a lonely spot near the eastern railroad bridge by Higginbottom and an attempt at criminal assault followed. The cries of the girl were heard by people living in that vicinity, who reported the case to the police, who immediately began search for Higginbottom.

RESCUED THE DOG

The employees of the railroad docks at North end are out with a lot of praise for the heroic work of one of the engineers who rescued a large dog that fell off the end of the pier in a strong tide on Thursday. The medal commission may act later.

Getting Even.

Some retaliations are too clever to be resented. They seem to be almost a logical part of the circumstances that evoked them. Dr. Wines was formerly the principal of a boys' school. One day he had occasion to trounce a lad, who naturally resented the punishment. On the doctor's front door was a plate bearing the one word "Wines." That night a bold and clever hand added three words to the inscription, so that in the morning the doorman read this way: "Wines and Other Lickers."
